Industrial Accidents

Thorpe Shwer attorneys are skilled in defending personal injury, wrongful death, and property damage claims arising from a wide variety of industrial accidents, including complex cases involving catastrophic injury or death. We understand that every industrial accident claim is different. Our attorneys work with clients large and small at every stage of the legal process, from to pre-litigation investigation and evidence preservation to executing a strategic defense through discovery, trial, and appeal. We know what is required to achieve a positive outcome and have leveraged our experience to obtain defense verdicts, summary judgments, and favorable settlements for our clients in jurisdictions throughout the United States.
